Requirements of Anguilla Residence by Investment

To qualify for Residence by Investment, the applicant can either

- Purchase or construct real estate for a minimum value of $750,000 and maintain it for a minimum of 5 years; or,
- Make a one-time contribution to Anguilla's Capital Development Fund, which is used to finance public sector projects that grow, develop and diversify Anguilla's economy. This starts at $150,000 for a single applicant.

To qualify under the High Value Resident Program, the applicant must:

- Pay $75,000 per year in annual worldwide income tax to Anguilla's Treasury; and
- Own and maintain a property in Anguilla valued in excess of $400,000 (inclusive of land purchase in excess of $100,000); and
- Establish other genuine links in Anguilla, and
- Spend a minimum number of days in Anguilla each year; and
- Declare annually, in writing, that the applicant spends less than 183 days per year in any other country; and
- Demonstrate the ability to readily transfer the total amount of funds covering the annual lump-sum tax obligations for the first 5 years; and
- Pay the program's application and due diligence fees and remain in good standing throughout the residency period.

Both Anguilla residency programs target a very niche market of people who spend less than ninety (90) days per year in any one jurisdiction but still need to declare a tax residence, as per Common Reporting Standards (CRS) requirements to self-certify.
